

The Washington Post

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 14, 2004

Mobile Doctor Honored

Gloria Wilder Brathwaite, a physician and medical director of the Children's Health Project of D.C., has been honored for her work in providing comprehensive pediatric and dental care, via a mobile unit, to about 200 children a month in poor neighborhoods of Wards 5, 6, 7 and 8.

Brathwaite, who lacked medical care as a child, was honored by Redbook Magazine with a Mothers and Shakers award. Sen. John F. Kerry was keynote speaker at the award ceremony in New York. Celebrity honorees included Jamie-Lynn DiScala, Daisy Fuentes, Sarah Michelle Gellar, Teresa Heinz Kerry and Uma Thurman.

COURTESY OF REDBOOK

Gloria Wilder Brathwaite, right, is honored for delivering health care to poor children. From left are Redbook editor Stacy Morrison and Teresa Heinz Kerry.